

Company Introduction

WeZoop is an early-stage start-up venture developing healthy aging food & drinks. WeZoop is a fairly young company with two industry experts who came together and started working on inspirational ideas from university scientists and professors.

WeZoop is led by two founding members and now looking for bright candidates to join our management team.

Job Description

- Generate new product ideas by analysing ingredients, recipes and additives
- Looking at ways to modify and improve existing recipes
- Monitoring the use of additives, testing, examining samples and writing reports
- Identifying and choosing products from suppliers
- Looking at different ideas designing processes and machinery for the production of recipes on a large scale
- Maintain technical process documents
- Work on packaging solutions
- Coordinate with internal and external teams, cross-functional teamwork between marketing, R&D and quality as a food technologist
- Ensuring that strict hygiene food safety standards are met

Requirements

- You have excellent written and oral communication skills (intermediate or fluent in English (can read, write and well-spoken for day-to-day business))
- You are confident and able to work independently
- You have strong analytical and numerical skills
- You have meticulous attention to detail, especially with regard to food and hygiene
- You are good at team working abilities
- You are willing to travel if necessary
- You will be go getter

Company Offers

- To join as Co-Founder in our management team as head of Food Technology
- Flexible time (4 to 5 hours a day)
- To learn International experience
- Monthly Salary Negotiable